That the veil of another century may, as it were, be lifted, its possibilities and probabilities touched upon, or pictured by youthful minds, we must draw aside time's curtain and look backward over the century just ended—now dead in all save its grand results—so prolific of victories, of heroes, and their accompaniments of heart aches, tears and graves!

The nineteenth century, with its miraculous achievements in science, in wonders of art, in its rapid strides toward the accomplishment of all ends desirable. Whose funeral notes are still sounding in the corridors of time. Contemplating its people in our fair State, left to contemplate that century's grandeur of thought, mechanical skill, art and science in this, we must, perforce, predict for the birth-year of the next century a period in which all of these are marvelously intensified by the steady march of Time.

Kentucky can bring to the year 2000 no Daniel Boone—man of destiny that rescued her from the wilds and barbarism—because, thanks to progress, we do not need one; nor can another Jefferson Davis come to make proud her people.

Mayhap a Henry Clay will rise to bless the state that fostered him or a Lincoln, in his purity and unostentatious goodness, to reproach a corrupt administration or stay imperialism.

Electricity, by its mighty magic, will draw within its stretching wires all nations, however remote, nearer and nearer, until voices reverberate over the sea, and faces clear are definitely portrayed as we speak heart to heart with those we love.

Electricity's crowning victory will be to indicate, by an abridged and rapid method that all of youth may not be spent toiling over books and coming problems.

Electricity will be the blood-hound to track the red-handed murderer, and to accomplish all things with dispatch; religion, the Reformer, that in the next century, regenerates the rugged Kentuckians of the east, where crag and chain now overshadow and embrace a people of lawlessness and fends; the tall mountaineer, pugnacious, resentful, unforgiving—a tool for crime.

Kentucky in the year two thousand will witness all these and more.

She will be liberated from all thralldom, her institutions live amidst the rage of mammon, and all her interests blend in one harmonious song.

Kentucky then lifts up her flag unfurled, not as now with howed head, and blood stained garments trailing in the mire of political crime, as sadly she weeps for wayward sons, but with joyous face she defies the world to produce a race like hers; her "tall men, sun crowned, who rise above the fog in public duty;" her women, tall, willowy, graceful, heads poised like that of a Greek goddess, the light of intellect and womanly virtues illumining her fair face, and who, if misfortunes come, bow uncomplainingly to the rod.

Kentuckians! proud and true! the very embodiment of all that fills the heart with native pride.

The year two thousand is what this century makes it—as the rushing river widens by the flow of its tributaries, and Time, brother of space, will see our State brought out of shadow and gloom, and on her pedestal of honor and worth, a pedestal so high that no man or race may ever reach it.

SUNFLOWER.

Miss Sadie Thomas is the author of this essay.

Perhaps the most wonderful and astonishing high wire act in America today is that of John Lynch, professionally known as "The Great Lynch," who will appear here during the engagement of the Gus Sun American Minstrels. Mr. Lynch performs on a thread-like wire, with as much ease and safety as most people would walk a 12-inch plank. He disrobes on a ladder standing on the wire, walks the ladder with his hands, uses the wire as a hammock, swinging eight to ten feet, and, most astonishing of all turns a complete summersault on a high wire no larger than a lead pencil. The act is truly nothing short of marvelous.

Presidential Inauguration Ceremonies, March 4.

On account of the above mentioned occasion tickets will be sold to Washington, D. C., and return at rate of one regular first class fare. Tickets will be sold only on March 1st, 2d and 3d, limited to continuous passage in each direction, and to March 9, 1901 for return. T. C. Jameson, Agt.

Commencing this week, dining cars will be operated on trains No 101 and 1, and 102 and 2 of the Illinois Central between Central City and Memphis.

King Victor Emmanuel of Italy conferred, on the 8th, with Signors Ivola, Biondi, Indini and Biancheri, with the view of forming a new cabinet to succeed the Saragosa ministry, which resigned on the 7th.

John Dickinson, of the firm of John Dickinson & Co., Chicago commission merchants, was expelled from his seat on the Chicago board of trade, on the 5th, by the board of directors. The charge against him was cutting the standard commission rates set by the board.

Mayor Reed of Kansas City, Mo., on the 6th, signed an ordinance regulating the rates of the Missouri & Kansas Telephone Co. At present the annual rate for business telephones is $60, and for residents $48. The ordinance reduces the rates to $48 and $36 respectively.

Mrs. Carrie Nation, with three followers, snatched the "Senate" the finest saloon in Topeka, Kas., on the 5th. She was arrested, after completing her work, and taken before the police judge, who, after receiving a severe lecture upon his duty as a judge, released her.

The Berlin Vossische Zeitung expresses the opinion that Emperor William's visit to England can not be diverted of political importance. Not that treaties or agreements have been concluded, but many matters must have been discussed, and probably satisfactorily arranged.

Gov. Barnes of Oklahoma, when informed, on the 7th, that the Shawnee Fair association had offered a purse of $25,000 for the Jeffries-Tubilla prize fight, declared: "No prize fight can be held in Oklahoma while I am governor. Prize fighting is prohibited by our laws, and the laws will be enforced."

Dr. Homer C. Stunz, of Mount Vernon, Ia., has been appointed presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal church in the Philippine Islands, and will sail from San Francisco for Manila to take up his new official duties, April 1. He expects to take a dozen or more missionaries with him and organize Methodist Episcopal churches in every section of the Philippines.

In consequence of a series of agrarian riots in the fruit-producing parish of St. Mary, Jamaica, the governor, Sir Augustus Hanning, on the 7th, issued a proclamation warning the people against attempting to take forcible possession of any land. The troubles have slowly been developing a serious phase, and the authorities are taking a firm stand in the matter.

The secretary of the treasury, on the 5th, wrote to Representative Tawney, chairman of the Louisiana purchase exposition committee, that he had received satisfactory evidence that the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co. had raised the $10,000,000 required as a prerequisite to government aid of the great St. Louis exposition in 1903. Later in the day the bill was ordered favorably reported.

Representative Tawney, of Minnesota, chairman of the special committee on the St. Louis exposition, on the 8th, filed his report on the bill appropriating $5,000,000 in the aid of the exposition. The report strongly urges favorable action on the measure, both on its merits and in redemption of the pledge of congress given at the last session. A minority report, also, while opposing, gives many reasons why the bill should be passed.

Senator Smith, on the 7th, introduced a bill in the Kansas senate making it a felony to participate in a mob or to purchase rope or firearms for the use of a mob. The bill also provides that an officer who allows a prisoner to be taken from his custody by a mob shall be removed from office unless he can show to the court that he was unable to keep the prisoner without actually endangering his life.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Compiled from Various Sources.

FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

[Second Session.]

In the senate, on the 4th, after much of the session had been occupied by speech by Mr. Bacon (Ill.) on the right of the senate to demand information on file in the departments, the shipping subsidy bill was laid aside by consent, to give place to action on the appropriation bills. The shipping bill still holding its place as unfinished business in the house, a bill to extend the charter of national banks for another 20 years from 1902, when the present extension expires, was passed without debate. Senate bill to create a commission to adjudicate claims against Spain, was amended so as to refer the claims to the court of claims instead of a commission and, as so amended, passed.

In the senate, on the 5th, the District of Columbia appropriation bill was passed, and the bill making provision for the support of West Point military academy was partially considered. The ship subsidy bill was formally laid aside, and superseded as the unfinished business.... In the house consideration of the post office appropriation bill was continued, a large number of members taking part in the debate, but little progress being made with the bill. Among other speeches Mr. Griggs (Ga.) inveighed against the "association of postal employees formed to force legislation in their interest."

In the senate, on the 6th, the military academy appropriation bill was passed after only an hour's consideration. The only change made in the bill was the strengthening of the provision against hazing at West Point. The remainder of the day was devoted to the war revenue reduction bill, which, after a debate lasting several committee amendments, was passed. A night session was held for discussion of the bill. The bill, after several amendments, was passed on the 7th, at 12:30 p. m., upon the several amendments.

In the senate, on the 7th, the pension appropriation bill carrying $140,000, was passed after a few minutes' consideration. The ship subsidy bill was then taken up. Mr. McLaren (Iowa) speaking for, and Mr. Morgan (Iowa) speaking against the measure.... In the house the post office appropriation bill, after a debate lasting almost an entire week, was passed, the proposed amendments being all voted down. Several bills of minor importance were passed, after which the house took up the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill.

In the senate, on the 8th, an effort to agree upon a day for a final vote upon the shipping bill was defeated. Mr. Pittsford (Iowa), N. C. spoke in support of the bill, which was then, informally laid aside, and the naval appropriation bill occupied the remainder of the session.... In the house a general pension bill was passed to return to the pension rolls widows of soldiers of the rebellion who, having remarried, subsequently became widowed or divorced. The bill, however, limited, however, to widows of soldiers who were married before the close of the rebellion and who are now dependent upon their own labor for support. The bill also passed 18 private pension bills, making about nine hundred private pension bills passed by this congress.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

With the simple ceremony of the Dutch Reformed church, Wilhelm, queen of the Netherlands, and Duke Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, were united in marriage at the Hague, on the 7th. By the marriage contract the queen allows her husband the interest on 50,000,000 guilders.

A dispatch of the 7th, from Baku, Russia, says that 500 persons perished in the conflagration there among the oil properties. All the Rothschild reservoirs were burned.

The burghers of Volkshush have issued a strong appeal for peace to the commandants in the districts in that vicinity, reminding them that thousands of Boers have been killed, killed or wounded, and that ruin is impending from the hopeless struggle.

"Plague prevails in every part of India," says the Bombay correspondent of the London Daily Express, "except the central provinces." It is only particularly severe in Bengal, where there is a weekly mortality of 2,500. In Bombay the deaths reached 94 per cent. of the cases.

William H. Scott, 52 years of age, a Christian scientist and himself a "healer," who had been ill for three weeks, a victim of the grip and pneumonia, died at his home in New York city, on the 7th, leaving a widow and two sons. He had refused to allow a physician to attend him.

Mourning by the knowledge that his bride of three months had deceived him, and that she had a husband and child of three years when she went to the altar with him, Carl Arnold shot and killed his wife in New York city, on the 7th, and then ended his own life.

Count Smolianoff, the inventor credited with the discovery of smokeless powder, was, on the 7th, declared by the police court of Washington to be a confirmed drunkard, and was ordered committed to the workhouse for three months.

Queen Wilhelmina's marriage to Duke Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, who, on his wedding day, became Prince Heinrich of the Netherlands, was celebrated, on the 7th, at The Hague.

Train No. 5, the New York limited on the Erie railroad, was wrecked, on the 7th, within the town limits of Greenville, Pa. Five passengers were dead when taken from the wreck, several are missing and there are many badly injured.

R. G. Dun & Co. reported, on the 8th: "Failures for the week were 269 in the United States, against 245 last year, and 35 in Canada, against 33 last year."

INCRIMINATING EVIDENCE.

The Treason of Carranza and Carranza Becoming Daily More Apparent and Flagrant.

Manila, Feb. 9.—Since the arrest of Theodore Carranza and D. M. Carranza, charged with furnishing supplies to aid the insurgents, evidence has been rapidly developing tending to show that not the Carranza company alone, but many business men in Manila have been having relations with the insurgents. The secret service officers yesterday reported from Pagsanjan the capture of three natives, Cosme, Almonte and Llamas, members of Gen. Cailles' insurgent committee in that district. The papers found on them were so personally incriminating that they were led to divulge damning information concerning Carranza and others not arrested. Cosme acknowledged that he was Carranza's partner in insurgent trading, and Llamas has become distinguished by his oratory among the Filipinos.

The police learned that Fabello, ex-presidente and ally of Carranza in his Laguna de Bay dealings, has $100,000 in insurgent money, deposited in the Spanish-Philippine bank at Manila. The officers confiscated this money. Manager of the bank, who had loaned Carranza a considerable sum of money without security, is under suspicion.

New batches of incriminating evidence have been received by the provost marshal.

Carranza was preparing a small steamer to carry him to Japan on the day following the night of his arrest. He says he was contemplating a trip for his health, but asserts that his intention was to go to Marikina, Luzon. Gen. Young, commander of northwestern Luzon, is to return to the United States. Gen. Bell, the provost marshal of Manila, will succeed him.

There had been considerable misunderstandings between the military and the new provincial officers at Benguet, based partly on the belief of the subordinate military officers that Provincial Secretary Sherer had been an insurgent sympathizer. Mutual understandings have been reached, and the military in Benguet have been ordered to co-operate fully with the civil authorities.

It has been ascertained that Fabello withdrew $100,000 of the funds of Gen. Cailles' insurgent committee that had been deposited in the Spanish-Philippine bank, and invested it in two steamers and a tobacco concern. The police will seize the property.

It is rumored again in Cavite province that Aguinaldo has been seen at Indang.

NEWS FROM THE HAWAIIANS.

Without a Merchandise License Law—Last of the Handed-the-Horn Fleet—Other Matters.

Honolulu, H. I., Jan. 30, via San Francisco, Feb. 9.—The supreme court has declared the Hawaiian merchandise license law unconstitutional, leaving the territory without any law of the kind until the legislature meets and enacts a new one. The old law provided for an importation license. This was held to be in conflict with the interstate commerce laws.

The decision was rendered in an action against Theodore B. Davis & Co., involving license fees amounting to $5,975, or three-eighths of one per cent of the value of imported goods sold by the firm in a year.

Honolulu has seen the last of the round-the-horn fleet of sailing sugar vessels. This year the sugar crop goes to New York in the large new steamers of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Co. A large fleet of sailing vessels has been employed every summer for some years past to take the sugar round the horn. It is reported that the new company will put 11 large steamships, all new, on its New York-Honolulu-San Francisco line, running a steamer every two weeks, to make a trip from New York to Honolulu in 38 days, via San Francisco.

The failure of President McKinley to appoint a circuit judge to succeed Judge Silliman, who resigned two months ago, has resulted in a serious overcrowding of the court calendar. When Judge Humphreys opens the February term of court on the 4th of next month he will have twice as much criminal business on the calendar as he can attend to during the term. The cases on appeal in civil matters will have to wait.

Intelligence of the death of Queen Victoria was brought here on the steamship Sonoma, on January 30. Though expected, the news that the aged queen had passed away profoundly shocked the community. Flags were at once placed at half-mast and a number of business houses closed their doors on receipt of the news.

Many Japanese and native workmen on the Island of Maui have formed an association. They demand $28 a month with quarters, fuel, etc., free.

Salute with Prussian Acid. Omaha, Neb., Feb. 9.—A special to the World-Herald from Stanton, Neb., states that Dr. C. H. Paucher committed suicide at that place by taking prussic acid. He had resided there but one week. Poor health is supposed to have been the cause.

Fatally Struck. New York, Feb. 9.—Charles Yost was stricken over the heart, Thursday night by Fred Hoffman, a groceryman in Hoffman's store. Yost managed to get to his home, where he died in his wife's arms. Hoffman was arrested.

MRS. NATION BACKED OUT.

She Abandoned a Joint-Smashing Raid that Promised to Be Sensational.

SHE SAID THE LORD DID NOT DIRECT IT.

A Party of Thirty Followers, Armed for the Fray, Disgusted, and Some Went So Far As to Call Her a Coward—Lecture Engagements at the Bottom of It.

Topeka, Kas., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Nation, Thursday night, for the first time, displayed the white feather. It was at a meeting of 30 of her followers, who, armed with hatchets, had gathered in secret to arrange a night raid on Topeka joints. The women had been promised the aid of several male students at Washburn college, who were to come to town, armed, after midnight, and personally take part in the raid and also see that the crusader were not molested. The excitement at the meeting was intense, the women planning minutely for the raid. It was decided to saunter out at three o'clock in the morning and demolish every joint in town.

Mrs. Nation Backed.

Suddenly, when everything seemed satisfactory arranged for the raid, Mrs. Nation balked, began putting on her wraps and said she was going home. Instantly her followers were in an uproar. Mingled with expressions of surprise at her quick change of front, soon came words of condemnation. Finally one woman, who had spent a greater part of the day collecting hatchets and soliciting aid for the crusaders, rushed to where Mrs. Nation stood in the center of a group, and shaking her fist in the Wichita woman's face, shouted excitedly:

Called Mrs. Nation a Coward. "You are a coward, Mrs. Nation, you are a coward."

For a moment Mrs. Nation lost control of herself, the first time since she had started out on her smashing tour.

"I am not a coward," said she, with emphasis. "I will go this minute with any one woman and smash a joint."

A dozen voices were raised: "I'll go, I'll go," and for a moment it looked as if an instant raid would result. But Mrs. Nation, soon collecting herself, turned to her followers, told them she was tired, that the "Lord did not wish her to go tonight," and without further ado left the room.

Women Waited and Wondered.

While the women waited to wonder at their leader's latest move, Mrs. Nation, accompanied along by a reporter, made the rounds of the joints to satisfy herself that all were closed. The jointists, apparently anticipating a raid, had closed and barricaded their doors, and at midnight Mrs. Nation went to her home.

Would Tell Nothing Definite.

During the evening Mrs. Nation was questioned about her Chicago trip, which had been planned for next week, but she could tell nothing definite about it. "I will go when the Lord directs me," she said. "At present he wants me to remain here."

"Some of the volunteer members of Mrs. Nation's band of crusaders claim that their leader has been induced to give up the smashing of joints in order to go on a lecture tour. Mrs. Nation is expected to speak in Kansas City, Omaha, Sioux City, Des Moines and Chicago and she has refused many other offers."

IMITATING MRS. NATION.

An Indiana Woman Demolishes a Saloon at Auburn.

Auburn, Ind., Feb. 9.—The Mrs. Nation saloon-smashing crusade has reached Indiana. Mrs. Tom Creal, whose husband is foreman in the Baltimore & Ohio shops at Garrett, completely demolished the handsome new plate glass front of Peter Behler's saloon. A hatchet was used to do the work and after breaking in the front, Mrs. Creal entered and secured a beer bottle, which was the last weapon used. She had repeatedly warned Mr. Behler not to sell to her husband, who was in jail at the time.

WILL GIVE UP LIQUOR SELLING.

Not Will Fight to Retain Pool and Billiard Tables.

Wichita, Kas., Feb. 8.—Mrs. G. Bronfield led 20 women in a crusade at Clearwater, this county, yesterday. All the jointists purchased immunity by promising to abandon their liquor business, which they did. But the women now demand that they give up their billiard and pool tables also. This they refuse to do and the women threaten to smash them. A raid is expected every moment, and the town is excited. The jointists say the removal of their liquors brings their business within the pale of the law and that they will fight to protect it.

A Naval Embarrassment.

New York, Feb. 9.—A special to the Herald from Washington says: Serious embarrassment prevails in the navy because of the inability of the medical corps to obtain competent young physicians willing to accept appointments as assistant surgeons.

Arrival of an Overdue Steamer.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 9.—A special to the Times from Port Townsend says: "The overdue steamer Bertha arrived here early this morning and left at eight o'clock for Seattle. She comes from western Alaska."

THE NERVES OF WOMEN

"I am so nervous and wretched." "I feel as if I should fly." How familiar these expressions are! Little things annoy you and make you irritable. You can't sleep, you are unfit for ordinary duties, and are subject to dizziness.

That bearing-down sensation helps to make you feel miserable.

You have backache and pains low down in the side, pain in top of head, later on at the base of the brain.

Such a condition points unerringly to serious uterine trouble.

If you had written to Mrs. Pinkham when you first experienced impaired vitality, you would have been spared these hours of awful suffering.

Happiness will be gone out of your life forever, my sister, unless you act promptly. Procure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. It is absolutely sure to help you. Then write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., if there is anything about your case you do not understand.

You need not be afraid to tell her the things you could not explain to the doctor—your letter is seen only by women and is absolutely confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with such troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

Mrs. Valentine Tells of Happy Results Accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It is with pleasure that I add my testimony to your list, hoping it may induce others to avail themselves of the benefit of your valuable remedy. Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I felt very bad, was terribly nervous and tired, had sick headaches, no appetite, gnawing pain in stomach, pain in my back and right side, and so weak I could scarcely stand. I was not able to do anything. Had sharp pains all through my body. Before I had taken half a bottle of your medicine, I found myself improving. I continued its use until I had taken four bottles, and felt so well that I did not need to take any more. I am like a new person, and your medicine shall always have my praise."—Mrs. W. P. VALENTINE, 566 Ferry Avenue, Camden, N. J.

$5000 REWARD Owing to the fact that some skeptical people have from time to time questioned the genuineness of the testimonials letters we are constantly publishing, we have deposited with the National City Bank, of Lynn, Mass., $5,000, which will be paid to any person who can show that the above testimonial is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission.—LYDIA E. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. ## UNDER A SNOW BLANKET.

Chicago Gets an Additional Seven Inches of Fine Snow With a Gale Accompaniment.

MANY CROSS-TOWN CAR LINES TIED UP.

The Blinding Nature of the Storm was Productive of Numerous Accidents, One Man Being Killed and Another Fatally Injured—Storm General in Various Forms.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Seven inches of snow fell in Chicago during the storm which started Friday afternoon and which raged until morning, resulting in an almost complete tie-up of many of the cross-town car lines, and seriously interrupting the suburban train service on all roads. So blinding was the fine snow, driven by a northeast wind, which at times reached a velocity of over 40 miles an hour, that many accidents resulted. The man was killed and another fatally injured as a result of the storm. Andrew J. Switzer, a railway switchman, was run down and instantly killed by a train of the Chicago and North Western.

Switzer was facing the storm, and did not hear the bell. Alvin Carlson was also run down and badly mangled while inspecting air brakes on a lake shore passenger train, the howling wind drowning the sound of the starting whistle.

On the South Side elevated railway a collision occurred on a curve at Sixty-third street, which derailed two cars and caused a panic among the passengers, but which resulted in serious injury to no one.

The storm was general over the west and southwest, and trains on all roads entering in Chicago were from 15 minutes to two hours late. Reports show heavy snow extending from Duluth down the Mississippi valley to St. Louis and eastward, the storm was covering Ohio with snow. South of St. Louis it was raining hard.

In Chicago the wet snow was coming on top of the foot that fell last Saturday and Sunday formed drifts in the suburbs that made street travel there almost impossible. The total fall of snow was the heaviest here for several years.

SNOW STORM AT NEW YORK.

Departure of Ocean Liners Seriously Interfered With.

New York, Feb. 9.—The snow storm which set in about 9 a. m. is interfering with the movement of outgoing ocean steamers. The Cunard liner Lancania, which left her docks shortly before ten o'clock anchored off quarantine, the air being so thick with snow that Capt. Dutton did not care to run the risk of losing his way while going down the channel. At Sandy Hook, the wind was blowing from the north, and the snow was so thick that it was impossible for the marine observer to make out the ship channel. The Lancania is the only steamer that has ventured out from dock.

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENT.

Movement Looking Toward Peace in South Africa is Said to Be Impending.

New York, Feb. 9.—A dispatch to the world from London says:

An important development in the direction of peace in South Africa is believed to be impending.

Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood, who brought about an armistice with the Boers after Majuba (the final battle of the Boer war of 1880-81, ending in British defeat) is going out in a special capacity, probably as a commissioner, which will enable him to treat with the Boer generals.

His appointment will be a virtual superseding of Lord Kitchener who, it is expected, will soon be relieved and become the commander-in-chief in India.

The scheme, which it is believed is the best informed circles are afoot for the ending of the war, undoubtedly is due to the influence of the king, who was actuated by the advice of the kaiser.

CARRIE NATION IN IOWA.

The Kansas Joint Wreck: Given an Ovation on Her Way to Des Moines.

SHE'S GOING TO STIR UP THE DRY BONES.

Says She Left Her Hatchet in Kansas, But Is Willing to Die in Des Moines, If Necessary, in Doing Whatever God Calls Upon Her to Do.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, the Kansas saloon smash-up, received an ovation all along the Rock Island railway, from Atlantic to Des Moines, where she is billed to lecture, and, incidentally create, she declares, a "stirring up of the dry bones." At every little station where the train stopped the depot platforms were crowded with people who had braved the weather and waded through snow drifts to catch a glimpse of her. She was accompanied by A. C. Rankin, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and by Miss Madeline Southward, of Topeka, Kas., the special friend and champion of the crusader.

Greeted by a Thousand People.

Fifty,000 people were at the depot in Des Moines. In the crowd were delegations from the local W. C. T. U. and from the State Anti-Saloon league. The latter was headed by Superintendent H. H. Abrams, who has declared his purpose to secede Mrs. Nation's services in smashing certain drug stores in the city which he claims are violating the law. Mrs. Nation's contract with the local secretary of the Y. M. C. A. for her lecture contains the clause:

"There is to be no smashing of joints legally conducted."

Mrs. Nation interprets this to mean that if there are any joints which are running without due process of law, that she is permitted to do her worst.

In an interview she said: "I left my hatchet at Topeka, and it may be that I will not do any smashing in Des Moines, but there is no certainty of that, for I do just what God calls on me to do. I shall certainly, during the day, visit the saloons, peacefully I hope, but if the threats of the keepers of these places to kill me are put into effect, then I am ready to die in Des Moines."

A Public Reception.

In the afternoon hundreds of people gathered in front of the Sabine house in this city and marched in file to shake hands with the Kansas crusader.

In speaking of her trip to Chicago, she declared "Mayor Harrison had better mind his own business. I shall attend to what I believe God has called upon me to be my duty. My present plan is not to smash any more saloons, but to continue the crusade and arouse sentiment for the temperance cause. When I get to Chicago I shall deliver my address as I have agreed, and while there I shall call upon Mayor Harrison and give him a few pointers how he betrays the oath he took when he went into office. Oh, Harrison will have a nice time, and I shall give him a piece of my mind. Why, I think that Harrison is the biggest devil in the land."

Mrs. Nation leaves on Monday for Muscatine, this state, and then goes to Chicago.

FRANK H. HAMILTON'S TRIAL.

The Celebrated Day Murder Case Fully Launched in the Court at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 9.—The trial of Frank H. Hamilton, the newspaper reporter on the charge of murdering Leonard R. Day by stabbing him in a hotel billiard room November 25 last has begun. The court room was packed with a curious crowd.

County Attorney Boardman outlined the case and made the sensational statement that Hamilton, before his friends and attorneys had been able to reach him and advise silence, had made a confession of the crime to a police officer and had claimed that it was done in self defense.

Dr. H. H. Staples, house physician at the hotel testified to finding Day dead on the floor of the billiard room.

Dr. J. Warren Little, who had attended the post mortem described Day's wounds in detail.

The fatal wound had been delivered almost vertically. It was downward and forward. A man could live but a few moments after such a wound.

Former Morgue Keeper John Walsh produced Day's bloodstained clothing and it was received in evidence.

Alf L. Gary told how he, with Ray L. Evans and Guy Canfield, accompanied Hamilton to the hotel after one o'clock in the morning. He saw Day and his party playing billiards. He heard Hamilton speak disparagingly of a mutual woman acquaintance. Hot words and a clutch followed. They were separated and witnesses did not see the second clutch. He saw Day stagger and fall after they had been separated. Hamilton had assaulted Day and the latter had seemed to be preparing for it. On cross-examination the witness said he did not know what they had gone to the hotel for.

PHILIPPINE NAVAL STATION.

Capt. Wilde, Former Commander of the Oregon, Thinks Battle Would Have Been Heat.

San Francisco, Feb. 9.—Capt. George F. Wilde, recently commander of the battleship Oregon, in Asiatic waters, who has been detached from sea duty, is here on his way to Washington. The Oregon is now in first-class condition, and will probably start for this city about May 1. Capt. Wilde, in an interview, said:

"It is my personal opinion that the best place in the Philippines for the proposed naval station and dry dock would be Manila, on the island of Mindanao. There is a long protecting island immediately in front of Manila, and there are two passages, both of which are narrow and could be easily made absolutely impregnable. The naval base, which is a typhoon-proof harbor with a fortified island nearly midway of the entrance. It is 60 miles from Manila by water, and will be but 40 miles by rail when the necessary road in built. There is no settlement there larger than a mere village."

"As for the naval needs of the Philippines, I should say that we ought to have several 500-ton ships, a great many of them, for coast and inter-island service. The whole coast must be surveyed. The charts are all wrong."

HAZING AT WEST POINT.

The Report of the Special Committee of Congress Presented to the House.

THE DOCUMENT IS AN EXHAUSTIVE ONE.

Its Tone is Moderate but Emphatic, the Keynote Being the Conclusion That Brutal Hazing and Fighting Must Be Banished From the Academy at All Hazards.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The report of the special congressional committee which investigated the hazing of Cadet Booz and the general subject of hazing at West Point was submitted to the house of representatives by the chairman of the committee, Representative Dick, with a bill making stringent regulations against hazing, fighting and all brutal practices.

An Exhaustive Review.

The report is an exhaustive review of the practice of hazing in all its forms, and while moderate in tone, is nevertheless a stinging arraignment of the many alleged brutal practices enumerated. It specifies more than 100 distinct methods of annoying and harassing a fourth-class man, and describes them in detail.

One of the "funny formations" described is that practiced on Philip Sheridan, Jr., who was compelled to ride a broomstick, "in mockery of his illustrious father's achievement at Winchester." The report states that a system of fighting has grown up which is shocking in its character, and the committee states that the West Point code is more vicious than the Queensberry code.

The Worst Form of Hazing.

The committee held that fighting is the worst form of hazing. The report says that such fighting as that at West Point is a felony, according to the statutes in many of the states, and the time has come when congress must decide whether fights, which are high crimes elsewhere, shall continue at West Point.

The committee finds that Cadets MacArthur, Breth and Burton were hazing into convulsions, while others were hazed until they were sick.

Cases of Booz and Breth.

The hazing of Cadets Booz and Breth are elaborately treated, but the committee does not attribute their deaths directly to hazing. The report adds:

"But while we can not fix upon hazing the responsibility for these two deaths, the possibility that it hastened them and the blot it throws on the otherwise fair and glorious fame of the academy; its conflict with proper training and discipline, and untidiness in this new century urges the adoption of reasonable, yet we believe, effective measures for its eradication and the promotion of discipline at the academy."

The Bill Against Hazing.

The bill submitted contains eleven sections against hazing and provides means for its detection and punishment. Dismissal is provided for taking part in a fight or a challenge, directly or indirectly, or for any form of annoying, harassing or bruising of cadets. Cadets dismissed are made ineligible to appointment to the army, navy or marine corps. Provision is made for courts of inquiry, courts martial, closer association between officers and cadets, and other means for effectually stopping the practice of hazing.

LOOTERS OF MANY NATIONS.

The League of Civilian Looters in Peking Disrupted by Differences Over Division.

New York, Feb. 9.—A dispatch to the Herald from Peking says:

The League of Civilian Looters of all nationalities has been disrupted by differences which have arisen over the division of the spoils, and there now seems to be a chance for honest men, including the Chinese, to get their dues.

If only one-tenth of the charges of murder, assault and robbery against the foreigners are substantiated, as there is much reason to believe will be the case, Christendom will have cause to blush for shame.

TILLMAN WAS STIRRED UP.

He Will Take Up the Gage in the Senate to Behalf of a Mexican War Veteran.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The passage, at the beginning of the day's session of the senate, of a bill granting a pension of $50 a month to Stacy H. Cogswell, Co. F, Thirtieth Indiana volunteer infantry, indeed Mr. Tillman (S. C.) to make some forceful comments upon the house in not taking action upon a bill providing a pension for a Mexican war veteran who had resided in South Carolina during the civil war, and naturally had been in sympathy with the confederacy. The bill had been passed by the senate, but the house invalid pension committee was delaying final action upon it, Mr. Tillman said. He said there was such sectional animosity in the house committee that the members refused to permit action upon the bill for the benefit of this old Mexican war veteran.

"Is the war over or is it not?" demanded Mr. Tillman with vehemence. "Let us find out whether it is or not. I swear by the Almighty God that I will not let another pension bill pass this senate until this old man gets justice."

The resolution offered by Mr. Berry, calling upon the president for information as to whether the American minister to China has joined with the representatives of other powers in demanding the execution of Prince Tuan and other Chinese officials was adopted without debate.

House has reported favorably the bill appropriating $5,000,000 to aid St. Louis in getting up a big exposition. Why not? Money appropriated for this purpose will benefit a great many more people than the millions the ship subsidy bill gives a few ship owners. Why do we collect money from the man-ny, if not to be used for the benefit of the few?

Congress, the President and the country in general are anxiously awaiting for Cuba to adopt her constitution, with the understanding that if the document does not meet the approval of the dominant element in this country it will be promptly vetoed by the purveyors and surveyors of the modern anti-cle politically called freedom, but which really means that Cuba may play in our back yard if she will be real good.

The Hall of Fame.

Though this remarkable, to the New York University has been made known throughout the world by the comments of newspapers yet Chancellor MacCracken and those in the secret have steadily cost over $200,000. According to Sarah K. Bolton, the biographer, the giver was Helen Gould. This is stated in the March Delinquent, an article on Helen Gould and her gifts.

The Bingham Recital.

Notwithstanding the stormy an audience better pleased with an entertainment in this city. This is Mr. Bingham's third appearance in our city, and if he were to come once a week we believe the people would gladly welcome him. As a monologue entertainer, Bingham has no superior.

LONG LIVE THE KING

Strange Ceremonies Connected with Edward's Proclamation.

Here His of Fifteenth Century Etiquette Practiced in the Twentieth—Coronation Exercises Postponed Indefinitely.

(Special Correspondence.)

TIMES change, and men change with them. This old maxim is applicable to almost everything under the sun, except to the red tape ceremonial of European courts. That is why the prince of Wales was proclaimed king of Great Britain and land the other day just as was his predecessor from time immemorial. The twentieth century ceremony varies but slightly from that practiced in the fifteenth.

Good old Queen Victoria departed from the scenes of her earthly pomp and glory on January 22. On the 23d the privy council met and declared the throne to have devolved on the prince of Wales. Orders were given without delay to the earl marshal, the duke of Norfolk, and the officers of the "college of arms" to proclaim him. The first proclamation was made in the courtyard of St. James' palace. "Garter king," chief officer of the college, made the proclamation in solemn form, with the earl marshal, the kings, the heralds and the pursuivants in full uniform and stationed near by. At this proclamation the new king was present, sitting at the window where all his predecessors have sat.

On the next day, the 24th of January, the news of the proclamation was carried far and wide to the distant cities, the rank of the proclaiming officer descending as the business proceeded. The second pronouncement was made at Charing Cross and the third at the corner of Chancery lane. At this proclamation there was a modification of the ancient form, owing to the disappearance of Temple Bar. Within the so-called city of London the lord mayor and sheriffs preserve their ancient sovereignty and allow no monarch within their gates except after permission has been asked and granted. The ancient form was for the junior pursuivant to rap at the gate and show his warrant for proclamation. The ceremony of this year remained the same, barring the knock at the gate, which no longer exists. In the provinces the proclamations were made by the local mayors.

In ancient times the newly made monarch was clothed in the royal trappings and wore the royal crown when going through the ceremony here described. The prince of Wales became King Edward VII. without these gaudy accessories. He wore a field marshal's uniform with the ribbon of the order of the garter, and took the oath in the presence of the royal princes, the German emperor, the cabinet, the archbishop of Canterbury, the judges, the lord mayor and the aldermen and sheriffs of London. In his speech to the privy council the king said he assumed the title of Edward VII. in accordance with the wish of his beloved mother, who united the virtues of a supreme domestic guide with the affections and patriotism of a wise, peace-loving monarch. He had a respectful desire to leave the memory of his father's name, Albert, the exclusive treasure of his mother. Notwithstanding his personal desire he could not hope to do justice to the renown and virtues associated with Prince Albert's name. He would do his utmost, however, to be worthy of his great position.

The sorrow over the death of Queen Victoria was so genuine that the new king, who never was particularly fond of display, was enabled to omit many little ceremonials incident to the act of proclamation. When the time for the formal coronation arrives, however, he will have to submit to the wearing of coronation robes and crowns. It has been stated that this ceremony will not be performed for at least one year, because the coronation festivities are considered joyful rites, accompanied by much feasting, revels and public rejoicing.

One of the quaintest customs connected with the crowning of a king is that which requires him to offer to fight for his throne. In the olden times, when a king reigned by power of his good right arm, this was a necessary formality, and because it was necessary once it is still done. But the king no longer does his own fighting. He has a champion, the hereditary champion of England, whose business it is to battle with all comers for the crown. The champion is always a member of the Bynoke family. When the king is crowned this champion rides into Westminster hall, mounted and in full armor, just as the champion was centuries ago. He is accompanied by the earl marshal and the lord great chamberlain, also on horseback. The hall is crowded with sightseers. A proclamation is read by one of the heralds, challenging anybody who disputes the rights of the sovereign to combat in an open space. The champion throws down his gauntlet as a guarantee of good faith, and the hearts of all the ladies present flutter in anticipation of a fight. But it is all a disappointing sham. If some enterprising young knight were to take up challenge and gauntlet he would be run in by a policeman for disturbing the peace. The herald takes up the glove and hands it back to the champion, and the king is firmly seated on his throne.

It is hoped and expected that the seventh Edward will reflect honor upon the royal name he has chosen for himself. The six Edwards who preceded him were, without exception, selfish rulers; but several of them left a deep and lasting impression on the character of the nation over which they ruled.

Edward I, surnamed "Longshanks," was born at Westminster in 1239. He participated in the seventh crusade and was returning from Palestine when he heard of his accession to the throne. The most notable acts of his career were the banishment of all Jews from England and his defeat of the Scots under Wallace in 1295. Edward II. was the fourth son of Edward I. and the first prince of Wales. In consequence of his all-around incompetence the government was intrusted by the barons to 21 ordinaries. He was imprisoned in Berkeley castle and murdered at the instigation of his queen, Isabella. Edward III. was the son of Edward II. and Isabella of France. He threw his mother into prison and seized the reins of government. He involved England in the 100 years' war with France. His reign was signalized by several visits of the "black death." Edward IV. was the son of Richard, duke of York, and Cecily Neville, daughter of the earl of Westmoreland. He played a prominent part in the struggle between the houses of York and Lancaster for the throne, and is known to readers of fiction as one of the leading characters in Bulwer's "Last of the Barons." Edward V. was born in Westminster abbey in 1470. He was king of England from April to June, 1483, but was imprisoned in London tower by his uncle, Richard, duke of Gloucester, by whom he and his brother were secretly put to death. Edward VI. was the son of Henry VIII. by his third queen, Jane Seymour, and succeeded to the throne under the regency of his uncle, the duke of Somerset, who was supplanted by the duke of Northumberland. During his reign occurred the publication of the 42 articles of religion and the introduction of the book of common prayer.

King Edward VII. was married in St. George's chapel, Windsor castle, on March 10, 1863, to Princess Alexandra, oldest daughter of the king of Denmark. They have had five children, the eldest of whom, known as the duke of Clarence, was born January 8, 1864, and died in January, 1892. The second son, George, duke of York, was born June 3, 1865. Louise Victoria Alexandra Dagmar, born February 20, 1867, married the duke of Fife in 1899. Victoria Alexandra was born July 6, 1868, and Maude Charlotte, born November 26, 1869, married Prince Charles, second son of the crown prince of Denmark, on July 22, 1896.

The duke of York, who now is heir-presumptive, will eventually be invested with the principality of Wales, but probably not until after his father has been formally crowned. The duke of York married on July 6, 1893, Princess Mary of Teck, the affianced bride of his older brother, the duke of Clarence, who died in 1892. They have two sons and a daughter, so that the succession in direct line is almost absolutely assured.

DONE BY SPECIALISTS.

Subscription Books of Which No One Would Ever Guess the Authors.

"My introduction to the subscription book business," said a professional canvasser who enjoys a wide reputation as an expert, to a New Orleans Times-Democrat man, "was through a job I secured years ago as a clerk in the office of a man who had made a small fortune out of a peculiar line of publications. They were in the nature of manuals. One, for example, contained a 'Thousand and One Trade Secrets,' each guaranteed to make the possessor rich; another was a 'Social Guide and Treatise on Etiquette'; another was a 'Family Doctor Book,' and still another was a volume entitled 'Every Man His Own Lawyer.' The way these works were compiled was absurdly simple. The 'old man,' as we called the proprietor of the concern, would get together a lot of standard authorities on some special topic and then hire a hack writer to boil them down. The 'Thousand and One' I remember, were dug out of three or four trade encyclopedias and a few old recipe books. It contained much valuable information as how to make soap, how to clean wall paper and how to detect antique eggs. It had an enormous sale; in fact, I think it being sold to this day.

"But what amused and interested me particularly in the business was the curious incongruity between the subjects treated and the men who were hired to do the work. When I first went into the office I was greatly annoyed by frequent visits of a frowsy, middle-aged man, who was always half-drunk and who used to put his feet on the tables and squirt tobacco juice over the floor while he was waiting to see the boss. At last I made a formal complaint. 'Oh, well,' said the old man, 'you'll have to put up with him for awhile. That's—' and I want him to tackle our new encyclopedia of etiquette as soon as he gets sober enough to write.

"He's a jim dandy when it comes to 'slings a jim English.' Strange to say, the old ruffian was really a capable man for the job. He had a remarkable command of gingerbread 'society' phrases and a tawdry, ornate style exactly suited for such a publication as we proposed getting out.

"The chap who compiled 'Every Man His Own Lawyer' was known around the office as 'Necessity' Jones, a nickname based on the old joke that necessity knows no law. It was appropriate in more ways than one, however, for he was the most improvident wretch I ever knew in my life, and was always in desperate straits for money. He was continually being sued, and directly after he finished the book his salary was attached for an unpaid lawyer's fee. Under the circumstances, that struck me as being decidedly rich. A book called 'How to Succeed,' which was really an imitation of the well-known work by Samuel Smiles, was prepared by an old hack writer, who laughingly admitted that he had started 19 papers in his life, and that they had all gone to the wall. Odd as it may seem, he turned out a volume of genuine value, full of sagacious precepts and excellent practical counsel. The trouble was that he couldn't follow his own advice.

"The average reader has no idea how extensively these subscription manuals are sold," added the canvasser. "They are peddled mainly through the country districts, and once properly launched they form one of the most profitable branches of the publishing business."

FOR BACHELOR GIRLS.

Good Wholesome Recreation Is Recommended—Study Ever and Always.

Some excellent advice to bachelor girls is given by a writer in the Pittsburgh Press.

"Night work does not pay," she says. "I have known many successful women who, at the beginning of their careers, worked 12 hours a day. This may have seemed necessary, but it was not wise, although the persistence and energy which it revealed were admirable.

"The most profitable indulgence possible is that given to good, wholesome recreation, which not only improves the quality of one's effort but also extends the time in which to win success, the active period of a woman's life. Reading should form a considerable element in a young woman's recreation. On this point I speak with conviction from my own personal experience. I can recall scarcely a day in the course of which I have not spent from one to two hours or more from one to two substantial—history, poetry, political economy or historical romance. Not only have I found this one of the rarest pleasures of my life, but it has, to a very considerable extent, made up for the lack of a college education. Study in season and out of season. Never stop half-way along any line. Master it or keep it until forced to admit it has mastered you. Never forget or overlook an old friend, and make as many new ones as possible without the sacrifice of a whit of self-respect or individuality. Do this from principle, inasmuch as it is through our friends that the best opportunities of life come to us."

Forest Reserves of Rubber-Trees.

It is reported that the department of agriculture will set aside as forest reserves the island of Rombien, north of Panay, and the island of Pantaul in the Jolo group, United States army officers report that these are perhaps the richest islands in the world for rubber trees. In Zamboanga a new kind of gutta-percha is said to have been found. It is produced by a tree bearing a peach-shaped fruit which attains the size of a small melon.

IN AND OUT OF BARRACKS.

Great Britain still has 340 muzzle loading guns in her army.

The French minister of war proposes giving short-hand lessons to soldiers in all the French garrisons.

The Publishers' Circular of London states that over 100 books on the South African war have been produced in the last six months.

During the present year between 35,000 and 40,000 men will be dispatched by way of Odessa to recruit the Russian army now quartered in the far east, which already numbers over 170,000.

Verstehago, the celebrated Russian painter, will soon visit China for the purpose of painting the scenes of the recent fighting in and near Peking and will then go to Manila to portray some of the battles in the Philippines.

The German emperor has determined that the new rank of "grand admiral" shall be created in the navy, corresponding to that of field marshal in the army and carrying with it the right to use a baton. The baton, which for a field marshal has the shape of a riding whip, will for a grand admiral consist of a telescope.

WHAT THE WOMEN ARE DOING

Chicago authorities have granted licenses to six women to operate automobiles. They were all for running electrical vehicles.

Mlle. Fretter, of Amsterdam, who climbed the Breithorn a short time ago, is the first woman who has made the ascent of this steep Swiss mountain in winter time. The peak is 13,000 feet in height.

Frau Rosa von Rosthorn, wife of the acting Austrian minister at Peking, has been given by the Austrian emperor a war medal hitherto presented only to men. Her valor and services during the siege also won her the French Legion of Honor.

Signorina Labriola is the first woman lawyer in Italy, having just passed with honors in Rome. It is not her intention to practice, as she prefers to devote herself to the philosophy of law. She has won distinction as a writer on romance and is now a regular lecturer at the University of Rome, where her father and brother are already professors.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters, and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always secured for imitation, notably, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitations, but few equals for disorders like indigestion, dizziness, constipation, nervousness and general debility. Always go to reliable druggists who have the reputation of giving what you ask for.

Six Million a Year.

Did you ever stop to consider what a million means? Multiply this six times and it shows you how popular CASCARETS are and what great merit they possess. For, last year over six million boxes of this wonderful medicine for liver and bowels were sold in this country alone. The American people know a good thing. The sale of CASCARETS prove it. The medicine is the best for the bowels, the price right, 10c, 25c and 50c a box, and a 50c box is a whole month's treatment for the worst kind of a case. It is a pleasure to advertise a medicine like this as well as to endorse the makers and ask readers to buy it.

Of National Reputation are the Men Who Recommend Peruna to Fellow Sufferers.

A Remarkable Case Reported From the State of New York.

CONGRESSMAN HOWARD OF ALABAMA.

House of Representatives,
Washington, Feb. 4, 1899.
The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen—"I have taken Peruna now for two weeks, and find I am very much relieved. I feel that my cure will be permanent. I have also taken it for my grippe, and I take pleasure in recommending Peruna as an excellent remedy to all fellow sufferers."—M. W. Howard.

Congressman Howard's home address is Fort Payne, Ala.

MOST people think that catarrh is a disease confined to the head and nose. Nothing is farther from the truth. It may be that the nose and throat is the easiest affected by catarrh, but if this is so it is so only because these parts are more exposed to the vicissitudes of the climate than the other parts of the body.

Every organ, every duct, every cavity of the human body is liable to catarrh. A multitude of ailments depend on catarrh. This is true winter and summer. Catarrh causes many cases of chronic disease, where the victim has not the slightest suspicion that catarrh has anything to do with it.

The following letter which gives the experience of Mr. A. C. Lockhart is a case in point:

Mr. A. C. Lockhart, West Henrietta, N. Y., Box 38, in a letter written to Dr. Hartman says the following of Peruna:

"About fifteen years ago I commenced to be ailing, and consulted a physician. He pronounced my trouble a species of dyspepsia, and advised me, after he had treated me about six months, to get a leave of absence from my business and go into the country. I did so and got temporary relief. I went back to work again, but was taken with very distressing pains in my stomach.

"I seldom had a passage of the bowels naturally. I consulted another physician with no better results. The disease kept growing so me, until I had exhausted the ability of sixteen of Rochester's best physicians. The last physician advised me to give up my work and go south, after he had treated me for one year.

"I was given a thorough examination with the X-ray. They could not even determine what my trouble was. Some of my testimonials in the Rochester papers seemed to me worthy of consideration, and I made up my mind to try a bottle of Peruna. Before the bottle was half gone I noticed a change for the better. I am now on the fifth bottle, and have not an ache or pain anywhere. My bowels move regularly every day, and I have taken on eighteen pounds of flesh. I have recommended Peruna to a great many, and they recommend it very highly. I have told several people that if they would take a bottle of Peruna, and could then stand any that it had not benefited them, I would pay for the medicine."—A. C. Lockhart.

Mr. W. P. Peterson, of Morris, Ill., says: "I was nearly dead with catarrhal dyspepsia and am now a well man, better, in fact, than I have been for twenty years or more.

"Since I got cured by your Peruna I have been consulted by a great many people. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

THE SOCIAL SEASON.

Washington Society Deplores Mr. McKinley's Indisposition.

It Was Responsible for the Postponement of Many State Functions—A Chat About Diplomats and Their Ways.

(Special Washington Letter.)

SOCIETY is lurching, lethargic and unhappy. There seems to be no breeze rippling the social horizon. All of the buds and butterflies of fashion are simply miserable, because there is nothing doing in a big, dazzling way.

The social season always begins late with the New Year's reception at the white house; but this year, soon after that function, President McKinley became ill. Instead of receiving quickly he grew worse and was finally obliged to take to his bed and give up all business. Society did not care for the health of the great man in the white house, but it did care, and does care, for the fact that the great social functions ceased in a moment of his illness.

The state dinners, the receptions to the supreme court, to the senate and house of representatives, to the members of the cabinet, to the army and navy, to the general public, all these and many others were set aside for an indefinite period, greatly to the annoyance of those who are always anxious to be on the go, to see and to be seen. The young people do not suffer that intense agony of regret which agitates the hearts of the mothers whose daughters are growing up year after year every 365 days, without increasing prospects of a good match. Even old age is not respected in the fact for men; and some old fellows are seen to be married to young girls who ought to be in school several years longer.

Among Mr. Vanderbilt is said to have given his bride a dowry of upwards of $5,000,000. That is the American way of doing things. The foreigners give their American brides some of their American brides, and expect the brides to give them plenty of money. Hence it happens that the members of the diplomatic corps here are regarded as good catches by many young men. The foreigners will not pay any attention to girls who have no handsome dowries. The diplomatic corps is composed of diplomats, statesmen, gentlemen and snobs, the latter being in the payable majority.

The diplomatic corps is often spoken of in the newspapers, but the people generally do not know much about it. Human deals are frequent, and common, and popular impressions regarding the diplomatic corps are wrong. The general supposition of others outside of this city seems to be that the members of the diplomatic corps form a sort of military community in civil life. As a matter of fact they seldom are seen together, as a body. Occasionally there is some public function at the capital which causes all of these officials to assemble in the galleries set apart for them. On New Year's day they assemble in the department of state and attend the reception at the white house. On such inauguration day they sit together on the floor of the senate and witness the inaugural ceremonies. But generally speaking, this corps is scattered and has no homogeneity. Very few people resident in the national capital ever see these diplomats thus assembled, because very few have the good fortune to gain admittance to the state department, white house or senate chamber.

Somebody can have an adequate or comprehensive idea concerning any person or thing with which he cannot come into contact, visual or tangible. Therefore it is that few writers treat public men conservatively.

DIPLOMATIC RECEPTION.

and wisely. Editorial writers who do not know presidents and presidential candidates, senators and senatorial candidates, personally and heart to heart, are likely to have distorted ideas of the individuals of whom they write. Consequently they unconsciously and unintentionally often do injustice in their work. Few people who write about Mr. McKinley, William Jennings Bryan, Theodore Roosevelt and Adlai B. Stevenson know these men well enough to properly portray them in print.

So it is concerning the diplomatic corps. There are many divergent ideas entertained about this aggregation of individuals who represent the nations of the civilized world here; and those ideas are almost as diverse and numerous as the individuals who give the subject thought or consideration.

There is, and should be, no clamor or glitter surrounding the diplomatic corps in this city. It is composed of eminent gentlemen from the different nations of the civilized world, but these gentlemen are not always on dress parade. Excepting the Chinese and Korean ministers and their attendants, the members of the diplomatic corps dress as other gentlemen do, and no stranger could tell a diplomat on the street from an ordinary citizen.

The residences of the members of the diplomatic corps are scattered about the city, so that there is no residential homogeneity of the corps; and it is only on rare state occasions that they assemble in a body, wearing the uniforms and decorations.

British Ambassador Pannecote is a typical British gentleman; large, strongly proportioned, of grave mien, strong face and genial courtesy to officials and friends.

French Ambassador M. Jules Cambon is a typical French gentleman; scrupulously careful concerning his attire, voluble in conversation, polite, suave and given to flattery.

To describe each one would fill a volume, for each has characteristics of his race and country, although they are not obtrusive of those characteristics.

The appointment of ambassadors and ministers to represent the countries of the world at this capital, and the appointment of ambassadors and ministers to represent this republic at the capitals of the various nations, is regarded as one of the necessities of modern civilization.

But, like every thing else in national governmental affairs, it is overdone. The friendly relations between Great Britain and the United States could be easily maintained without having the people of Great Britain annually taxed $50,000 for an ambassador to this country. The friendly relations between this country and Mexico might easily be maintained without the people of this country being taxed $17,500 to maintain a minister there.

Not only are these ambassadors and ministers high salaried gentlemen, but they are expensive luxuries to the nations of the world, because they maintain costly residences, with secretaries, assistant secretaries, military and naval attaches, and hosts of servants. It has long since been apparent to me that the cost of our diplomatic and consular service is shamefully high, ridiculously high. But the other nations of the earth maintain these great expenditures by taxing their people; and, unless we make as good a show as they do, we might as well stay at home and keep out of diplomacy. Lady readers will understand this principle of diplomacy better than others, when they are reminded that it is better to stay away from church a whole year than to go to church with a last season's hat, or with holes in the stockings. They must dress well and keep up appearances, if their husbands work their fingers off.

That is not intended to be an ungallant or an undiplomatic remark, but a statement of fact for illustration.

The principal duties of the members of the diplomatic corps and their attaches are to entertain and be entertained; that is to say, to eat, drink and be merry. The ambassadors and ministers give costly, gaudy banquets when the congress is in session, and our entire governmental machinery is at work in this city; and their understrappers spend their time and their money in whiling, dining and theater-going with their friends in the corps, and with the friends they have made in this city.

Practically (when they are practical), some of these secretaries make it a business to charm and capture the handsomest daughters of our wealthiest men and marry them; for there are more fool girls to the square inch in this city than anywhere else in America.

That may seem a little harsh, but it is frank. Maybe if these diplomatic corps fellows were as prevalent elsewhere they might develop as many silly girls, for it is true of women as it is of the stronger sex, of whom the poet wrote:

"Men are only boys grown tall; Hearts don't change much, after all."

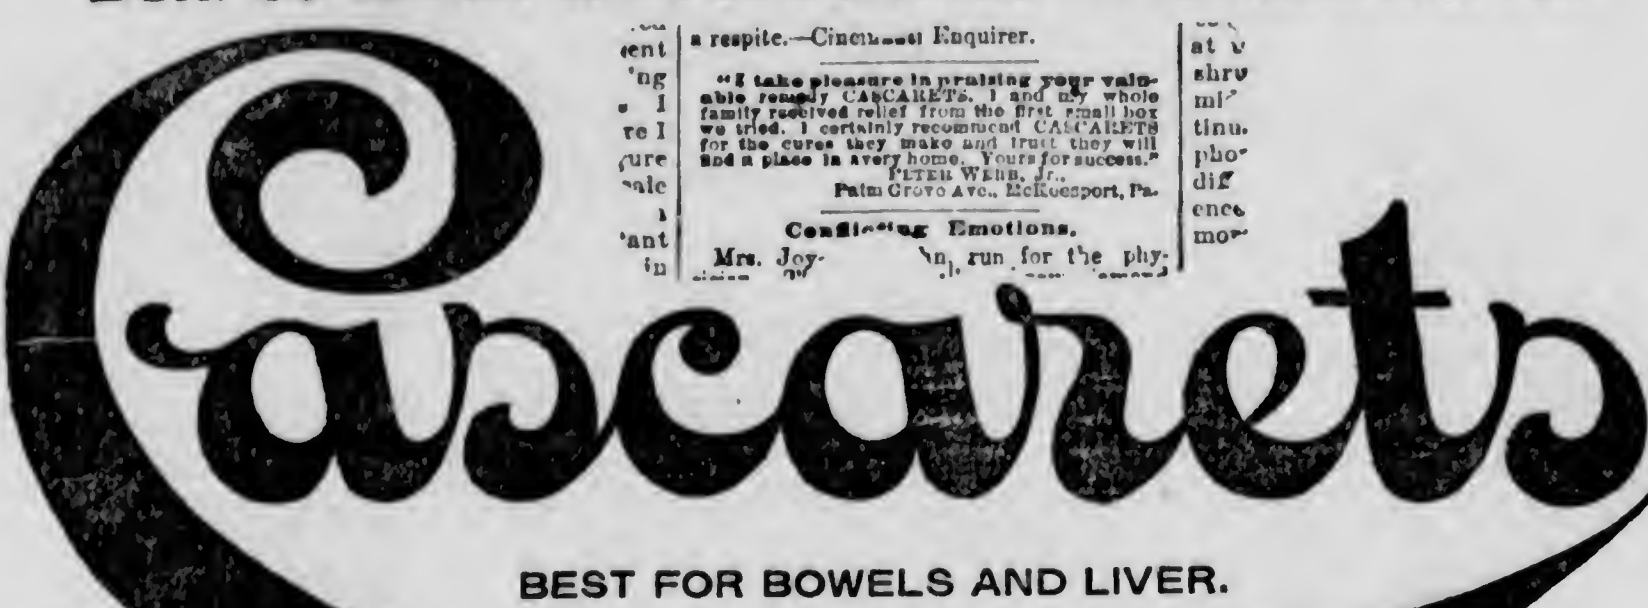

Human nature is substantially the same everywhere, and our butterflies and buds here may not deserve unkind characterization; but it is certainly unworthy of our national pride and international development that our girls and their match-making mothers should how and scrape, as they do, to these foreigners who assemble in our capital city. But we will not get up any Boxer movement to correct the evils which we see and deprecate. Nor should this story be concluded without saying that some of these foreigners are splendid examples of manhood as well as superior representatives of their governments and their peoples.

Just to Remind Her.

It was not one of those lovers' quarrels which are put for the sake of enjoying the sweets of "making it up again," but a real, genuine affair in which both parties felt thoroughly aggrieved. They parted in anger, and next day the lady wrote him the following note: "Hereafter I return all your presents, with the exception of the diamond ring, which I shall keep to remind me of your goodness and honest conduct altogether!"—In-Lite.

Immune from Kidnaping.

"Oh, my," giggled the Lady of Uncertain Age, "I am so afraid to go on the streets alone, now that the kidnapers are so bold." "You needn't worry. They only steal people in their first childhood," was the reassuring statement of the Bald Party with the Ingrowing Snail on his face.—Baltimore American.

The Best Prescription for Chills and Fever is a bottle of Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. It is simply iron and quinine in a tasteless form. No cure—no pay. Price, 50c.

FRANKLIN, Ky.,
Feb. 11, 1901.

ED. PRESS: There are but three weeks left in which students can enter the present class in the Southern School of Osteopathy. The requirements of osteopathic school are much heavier than than the medical schools or the colleges of the country. The graduates of our schools are better prepared upon anatomy, physiology and indeed all the fundamental branches requisite for the true physician than are the graduates of the medical schools. It is a specialty with us. It is one of the reasons why we are more successful than the medical men in the cure of disease. We know more about the human body and its ailments.

A quack is a pretender. Quacks are unworthy or unqualified men, who pretend to know and upon this pretense alone seek for patronage. We are willing to grant that the people who take a two weeks course in magnetic healing or a mail course in anything are pure and simple quacks. We are not willing to call our medical friends quacks, yet if it comes to a question of which one should have the title we respectfully call their attention to the fact that we require a measure of preparation that is unknown in the medical world, and more months in attendance in school than ninety nine per cent of the medical doctors spent.

Twenty months of hard work is required of our students. The tuition is $300, books about $35, and board not over $10 per month. But what a wonderful opportunity is open to every student of osteopathy. A large income from the beginning, an enviable position in the social world, unlimited opportunity to relieve suffering humanity, a certainty of success that can not be in any other profession. There are so few graduates that each one enjoys a limited monopoly and has no competition and will have little for the next twenty five years.

Why should a man or woman who is hardly making a living in the present position or business, remain when it is possible to change to osteopathy and better the conditions and increase the income and comforts of life. Certainly the matter is worthy a careful investigation. We have seen the members of almost every profession or calling change into osteopathy and in every case they have bettered the financial conditions. If the lawyer can not see a very bright future in law, we can point him to many lawyers, even State Senators, who have entered osteopathy. If the dentist for any reason is dissatisfied, we can show the brightest of dentists who have become osteopaths. If a Knight of the Grip desires a home we can refer to large salaried traveling men who have left the road for osteopathy. Ministers, doctors, farmers, merchants, tailors and even editors and time job printers in the class rooms.

Some of the brightest people have been able to work their way through the school, and while we recommend those who are able to devote their entire time to the study, yet we certainly recommend those who are not able to do other wise to make their way by their own efforts. Worthy men and women will receive every assistance on the part of the institution, to enable them to obtain the course. If your means are limited, write to the institution, stating the conditions and see what can be done for you.

The infirmity practice is increasing with the coming of the patients who have been waiting for moderate weather. There will be a large number of new patients from all sections of the country to take advantage of the skill and experience of the teachers in the school, who give a part of their time to the practice in the infirmity department. The charges for treatment are twenty-five dollars per month, and the best of board can be obtained from twelve to fifteen dollars per month—a little more than the students pay.

Diseases that are beyond the skill of medical men are cured here. Cases that have baffled the most skillful of the medical doctors yield readily to this treatment. Thousands of afflicted people receive permanent relief under the hands of our skilled physicians. No person should continue to suffer from any chronic disease without giving this institution a careful investigation and trial. If one of our graduates is located in your vicinity, he is worthy of your patronage.

One case will be taken free from each county, provided the patient is worthy and not able to pay for treatment and is able to pay for the board in a private family at a special rate of ten dollars per month.

If you are interested you should investigate at once the school and the infirmity. Write the particulars and ask for literature, applicable to your case, which will be sent you free.

Address the Southern School of Osteopathy, Franklin, Ky.
